The magical mastermind's
epicurian revenge

Ex

If I were Harry, my revenge would interpose with the Dursleys hedonistic gastronomic pleasures. Each morning they must prepare some epicurian delights for Harry. The menu should be fit for a mastermind of the magical arts. To commence with the Dursleys must fry maple cured Canadian bacon, the aroma of which tantalizes and teases their senses. The poaching of the quail eggs must be timed perfectly and served with luxur^orious, licious, velvety hollandaise sauce. After slaving in the kitchen the Dursleys will have to present the finished dish for Harry to savour. Meanwhile the Dursleys must be content with watery stoney unctuous gruel.
